

Herald Photo/Jason Olson

Antique autos

Antique car fans flocked to the Utah Valley Community College campus Saturday for the Auto Expo and Pioneer Car Cruise, and a chance to view Marilyn and Susan Jones' 1928 Model A Ford. Funds raised helped fund a scholarship at UVCC.

Monday, May 18, 1992

Provo council to review cable agreement

PROVO — Provo Municipal Council members will conduct a public hearing regarding the renewal of a franchise agreement with Provo Cable during their regular meeting Tuesday.

Resolutions raising ambulance service fees and fees at the East Bay Municipal Golf Course will also be considered.

Council members will meet at 7 p.m. in the Provo City Center, 351 W. Center. The public is invited to attend.

Don Butler, council chairman, said he has received about 100 letters in favor of Provo Cable and the service it is providing to the community.

In other business:

- Another public hearing will be conducted regarding the annexation of property located at about 880 North to 2000 North west of Interstate 15. Various annexation proposals were considered by the council in two previous meetings and were denied both times.

Annexation approval requires a two thirds or 5-2 vote of the council. Each defeating vote of the previous proposals was four council members in favor and three against.

The council was scheduled to hear the item again two weeks ago but the item was pulled from the agenda by the annexation's proposer.

Also, the council will consider a request for preliminary development plan approval of a mixed use housing development located west of Geneva Road and south of 620 North. The development would include townhomes, retirement condominiums and single family homes.

The Provo Planning Commission recommended the development be approved. The commission also recommended approval of a request to rezone the land where the development would be located.

Council members are also scheduled to address the rezoning request.

Youth City Government officials will be sworn in as part of Provo's first Youth City Council program.

